Back at the old grind but on so out of practice . . . never knew loafing was so good. But here's Seaside news in my plain old way . . .

An eager, interested turnout, predominately male, met at Hollywood Riviera Beach Club last Thursday evening in a special session of the Homeowner's group to hear Walter Rehwoald, Director of Education in Torrance, give a very informative talk on the methods of teaching in the Torrance schools. Active participation in the discussion by Seaside residents helped Mr. Rehwoald answer questions that had been bothering some parents.

It's a busy week-end ahead for Seaside residents again this week with "you know what kind of parties" being scheduled by the Paul Murrays and D. G. Hicks on Saturday, the Myron Pages and O. R. Hopkins on Sunday. It will be an old-time auction and barbeque when the Hicks and Murrays preside at the Murray home 23146 Doris Way this Saturday afternoon beginning at 1 p.m. There'll be hamburgers, hot dogs, cold drinks, coffee, and ice cream for the folks and the kids following the auction. For details on auction items or donations call FR. 45523. The Myron Pages plan a neighborhood barbeque Sunday afternoon at their home on Sharynne Lane, while the Hopkins are having an informal tract party in their back yard on Doris Way. This ice cream social is for young and old, with cake and games of croquette and horseshoes rounding out the party. Just mosey down Doris Way to Robert Road and it's right near there . . . 23112 Doris Way, about 2 p.m.

Lots of Seaside residents got to "eat out" this week at several lighting fund parties. Invitational affairs, a box social, charade party at the Dr. Coles on Wednesday evening; and a chili bean, bingo supper by the Walter Holloways and Byron Johnsons, Saturday evening at the Johnsons' home provided good food and a lot of fun for all the guests, including the Dan Besmers, H. G. Hanleys and Mrs. Whittle, the Eddie Fays and Mrs. Witney, William Cantys, George Jacques, Dorsey Gruvers, William Scanlois, Art Arndts, Harvey Spelmans, Edward Jeffreys, Fred Carlsons, Jim Halls, Mrs. Margaret Flahive, Mrs. Wayne Schooley, and the bingo players supreme Mrs. Isabelle Gaul and Mrs. Lillian Hardage at the Saturday evening party.

Mrs. Isabelle Gaul and yours truly hosted a two-day tamale pie dinner at the Carlton home on Wednesday and Thursday evening with a total of 60 Seaside residents attending.

Week-end doings for "light money" were the all day picnic and outing at Abalone Cove, arranged by the Robert Hyders and the Bill Shockenays with volleyball, dancing, swimming and cards during the afternoon and evening; and the Father's Day breakfast at the John Whytes on Sharynne Lane. Mrs. Paul Roettger was the lucky winner of the Father's Day "straw hat" cake at the Cove party, which, contrary to the morning weather at Seaside, was warm and sunny and very, very enjoyable. High lights of the Whyte's breakfast included "father" guests, William Morris, brought by his four youngest and George Honzik, guest of son Ricky; chefs supreme, Bud Newborn, and Bob Slater, who can get the groceries for Seaside parties. Menus consisted of pancakes and fried eggs, with some eager papas taking both. Add a grand total of $118.00 for last week and so much for the lighting parties.

PARENT-TEACHER MEMBERS CLOSED THE YEAR WITH INSTALLATIONS, PARTIES AND LUNCHEONS . . . The faculty at Harbor City School was feted by Harbor City PTA executive board members Thursday at a well-appointed luncheon in the school auditorium. Newly-installed officers of the PTA were in charge of arrangements. Pictured are: Mesdames H. W. Ludwig, president; Vilet Crawford, second vice-president and John D. Gimenez, auditor, left to right; front row, Standing are Mesdames George Weeks, treasurer; Marvin Scott, second vice-president; W. E. Dana, hospitality chairman; and Howard McPeak, membership chairman. Mrs. Don Wolf, Lomita-San Pedro PTA Council President, installed new officers of Normont PTA. Seated in lower picture, left to right, are Mrs. Wolf, installing officer; Mrs. Max Garren, president; Mrs. Vernon Diffee, retiring president; J. Wearle Pearson, school principal. Standing are Miss Frances Holtzman, second vice-president; Mesdames Robert Finley, historian; Carl Westfall, parliamentarian; Peter Geiser, secretary; and Ivan Hicks, auditor.—Staff photo.

Las Vecinas club women meet today at a luncheon featuring swimming and sunning at the Riviera Beach Club. Festivities start at 1 p.m. with the luncheon at 1:30. Business part of Thursday meeting will be held during dessert to be followed by bridge and swimming. Mrs. Mildred Groven and Diane Grolyball, dancing, swimming and cards during the afternoon and evening; and the Father's Day breakfast at the John Whytes on Sharynne Lane. Mrs. Paul Roettger was the lucky winner of the Father's Day "straw hat" cake at the Cove party, which, contrary to the morning weather at Seaside, was warm and sunny and very, very enjoyable. High

A neighborhood meeting for all Scout leaders, mothers and interested people will be held this evening in the Recreation Hall at Watteria for all South-west Torrance Area. Main speaker of the evening will be James Hallie, Torrance High School teacher which was held in the Presbyterian Church in Inglewood, Sunday afternoon.

Summer residents in Seaside Ranchos are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dunlap and children, Wilma, Natalie, Nancy, Julia, and Hannah, who have moved into the Horseshall Springs home on Carol Drive. The Dunlaps are from Ponca City, Oklahoma, and Mr. Dunlap's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Venable live in Watteria.

Mrs. D. J. Quinlivan and daughter Jane are completing final preparations for moving to Detroit where Capt. Quinlivan is now stationed. They have rented their home on Robert Road to Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Harvey and two girls, age 6 and 4, who are moving here from Palo Alto, Mr. Harvey is employed by Pan-American airlines.

Nine Seaside teen-agers held a wiener roast Wednesday evening at Playa Del Rey. Roasting wieners and marshmallows were Alartha Gruver, Janet Cash, Jane Quinlivan, Shirley Parish, Ellen Morris, Pat Merola, and Dick Flahive, David McNary, Benton McNary and Ray Parish. Transportation and chaperoning provided by the A. A. Arndt's, the Joe Merolas and the Dorsey Gruvers.

Michael and Steven, young sons of Dr. and Mrs. Harvey Cole, took their father sailing at Balboa Sunday afternoon. Daddy had never been to Balboa and enjoyed his Father's Day outing very much.

Mrs. D. J. Quinlivan and daughter Jane are completing final preparations for moving to Detroit where Capt. Quinlivan is now stationed.
